

Auri+ Hybrid Recommender System

Auri+ is a new streaming service with access to movies across multiple platforms. The streaming market is currently oversaturated with content, and Auri+ want to make sure their service will be different, and better. Recommendation engines are deeply necessary for these types of services. The goal of this recommendation set is to Recommend movies based on past activity (for existing users) and neighbor activity (to address the cold start problem).

Luckily, Auri+ asks for some movie ratings from users to help get them started, so even new users can find recommendation based on a handful of their favorite movies.

OSEMN- Obtain

Here we will be importing our data provided by MovieLens, we will be using the "small" data set, with just under 10,000 titles before we begin filtering lower rated movies from our recommender system.

The data is broken into four files: Movies, ratings, tags, and links. The first two are going to be the most important for our model, since we are going to be measuring our recommendation against a user's nearest neighbor, combined with said user's own ratings and viewing history.

In [4]: ratings = pd.read_csv("ratings.csv") movies = pd.read_csv("movies.csv") tags = pd.read_csv("tags.csv")
links = pd.read_csv('links.csv')

In [5]: movies.shape

Out[5]: (9742, 3)

In [6]: ratings.shape
```

```
Out[6]: (100836, 4)

OSEMN- Scrub

The cleaning process will mostly involve combining data sets and dropping irrelevant columns. Data Exploration is going to be the key piece of this notebook.

In [7]: model_ratings = ratings.drop(['timestamp'], axis = 1)
```

In [8]: ratings = ratings.merge(movies, on='movieId', how='left').drop(['timestamp'], axis = 1) ratings.head(10)
```

	userId	movieId	rating	title	genres
0	1	1	4.0	Toy Story (1995)	Adventure Animation Children Comedy Fantasy
1	1	3	4.0	Grumpier Old Men (1995)	Comedy Romance
2	1	6	4.0	Heat (1995)	Action Crime Thriller
3	1	47	5.0	Seven (a.k.a. Se7en) (1995)	Mystery Thriller
4	1	50	5.0	Usual Suspects, The (1995)	Crime Mystery Thriller
5	1	70	3.0	From Dusk Till Dawn (1996)	Action Comedy Horror Thriller
6	1	101	5.0	Bottle Rocket (1996)	Adventure Comedy Crime Romance
7	1	110	4.0	Braveheart (1995)	Action Drama War
8	1	151	5.0	Rob Roy (1995)	Action Drama Romance War
9	1	157	5.0	Canadian Bacon (1995)	Comedy War

We will also be dropping 'genres' for now. Since we will be measuring for a random user based on ratings, we don't need to group the recommendation based on genre, and hopefully our model will group similar movies together anyways based on nearest neighbor activity, or, better yet, complimentary genres.

In [9]: ratings.drop(['genres'], axis = 1)

OSEM- Explore

Exploring the data is critical, and here we will be looking for correlations that we can use to help fit our recommendation model.

In [13]: Average_ratings = pd.DataFrame(ratings.groupby('title')['rating'].mean())
Average_ratings.head(10)

Below we have our potential solution to the "cold start" problem, users without any existing ratings can enter movies they've liked in the past, and find similar recommendation based on other user activity.

OSEMN- Model

So, on to our main model. Recommending movies based on Collaborative item filtering, which will recommend movies based on data from a users viewing history, and nearest neighbor. Most of our data prep is now completed, so here we can simply define our function to get a recommendation, including failsafes for anything out of range for our users.

In [29]: def getrecommendation(user, num_of_recs = 5):
    if user > len(pivot_table.index):
        print ("Out of range, Please pick a different user!".format(len(pivot_ta for k, v in top_recs.items():

        if user == k:
            for i in v[:num_of_recs]:
                print('{} with similarity: {:.4f}'.format(i[0], 1 - i[1]))

In [30]: getrecommendation(55)

These are the movies you have already viewed:

Boondock Saints, The (2000)
 Bourne Ultimatum, The (2007)
 Crash (2004)
 Departed, The (2006)
 Gandhi (1982)
 Highlander (1986)
 Layer Cake (2004)
 Lock, Stock & Two Smoking Barrels (1998)
 Lucky Number Slevin (2006)
 Snatch (2000)
 Three Kings (1999)

We also recommend the following based on users with Similar Interests:

Bourne Supremacy, The (2004) with similarity: 0.637848
 Bourne Identity, The (2002) with similarity: 0.593476
 Equilibrium (2002) with similarity: 0.574705
 Inception (2010) with similarity: 0.550276
 Batman Begins (2005) with similarity: 0.539157

Looks pretty good! Now it's time to evaluate our model using RMSE (Root Mean Square Error and MAE (Mean Absolute error). We're hoping for lower scores here, so let's take a look!

Our RMSE score averaged out at 0.4, which is pretty great considering the scope of the data.

Our MAE score also followed suit with an average of just under 0.35. Safe to assume for now that our model was successful, and we minimized any potential errors.

OSEMN- Interpret (Conclusions)

Our Recommendation system looks to be up and running. We can change movies and users for different Recommendations, and get personalized results. More importantly, these results are tempered by only selecting movies above a certain rating, which we decided to use as the mean rating.

This ensures that any movies recommended are, at the very least, above average. There are two reasons to do this. The obvious one being that highly rated movies will be more enjoyable for the user. The second is related to the first, but in more broad strokes.

The streaming market has steadily increased as more content, more companies aim for their proverbial piece of the pie. In years past, Netflix and Hulu (more the former, of course) were the trailblazers, and this was due primarily to the content available on their platforms. Today, that content is spread out. AMC+, Disney+, Shudder, Peacock (NBC's streaming service) and dozens more all attempt to keep users engaged. The best way for them to do that is to filter recommendations tailored to each user, who will in turn hopefully provide more ratings they can use to find more users, and on and on.

What Auri+ is attempting to do differently here, is keep users engaged over the long term.

Movies that have captured the attention or praise of multiple viewers will most likely keep users more committed and more invested.

Recommendation systems will always be getting more sophisticated, and there is still work that could be done on ours, however it provides an excellent baseline recommendation that can be made more specific as users begin pouring in.
